I consider myself to be a creative Swiss Army Knife able to effectively function in a variety of roles, working with a range of media, from concept to completion. Over the years I have had my hands in just about everything working an array of jobs in the video production, digital design, and entertainment industries. I'm quite passionate about the work I do and find enjoyment in exceeding client expectations.

Outside of the office I frequent museums, microbreweries, national parks, and film festivals. Recently I've dedicated majority of my free time to producing a short film and expanding my portfolio of urban & adventure photography.
